POLITICAL.

A Word to Democrats.

If the Democratic party of Lincoln desires to retain its organization as a distinct party, it will become necessary in a short time to choose a candidate for each of the county offices to be filed next August. In selecting these candidates it behooves the party to alight upon some plan that will not only have the semblance of fairness, but shall be in reality equitable and just—a plan that will elicit a fair expression from members of the party. As for ourselves we want a straight-out Democratic ticket in the coming election, and we want none but Democrats elected. We want our party organization kept up, and we want that harmony in our ranks that will always insure success. In order to restore that harmony in the party we feel that too much care cannot be taken in the selection of our candidates for the next canvass. There must be no cause for squabbling in the ranks. Candidates may kick in the harness, and no harm to the party come of it, if the manner of adjustment of their claims is so fair and free from fraud as to create no divisions among the rank and file of the party. We are all tired of what seems to the people to be "packed" conventions; and we are all heartily disgusted with the fraudulent system of primary elections; so we must choose our methods of adjustment.—When we say adjustment, we do not mean that the party is under obligations to consider only the claims of those persons who have announced themselves as candidates. These persons are before you, it is true, and want their claims settled, but in selecting from the party such men for the various offices as will be acceptable to the majority, their claims will also be adjusted, whether any of them are nominated or not.—Let the Democratic Executive Committee meet and alight upon the best plan possible and then submit it to the party in mass-meeting for their endorsement. If the plan they submit is not satisfactory, let a better one be proposed, and when a satisfactory one is adopted let it be carried out in good faith, regardless of the interests of any man or set of men, section or precinct; and when a ticket is chosen let all men who are inducted with the principles of Democracy unite without dissension upon it. It is unnecessary to say that it is proper and right that the party should adopt a plan of selecting a ticket, and in making the selection, rule all other Democratic aspirants off the track. No intelligent man needs to be told this; and the man who argues to the contrary is woefully ignorant, or is a radical in disguise.

Believing that our party is as strong in the county today as ever, and knowing that our divisions have resulted from the imperfect manner of selecting candidates heretofore, we trust that the constituted authorities will use every effort at their meeting next Monday to devise a better and more satisfactory method. The following plans have been adopted by some of neighboring counties:

MADISON.
The Democratic County Committee appointed, privately, nine good men from each district, and drew, by ballot, from each nine, three men to represent each district, and they met on a day named by the County Committee and nominated a ticket. The action of the Appointing Committee (the first nine selected) was kept secret from the candidates until after the nominations were made. Men were selected who were no of kin to either of the candidates, and they were enjoined to silence in reference to their appointment. The nominations were made under this method and there is no dissatisfaction in the party.

BOYLE.
The Executive Committee of Boyle have published the following plan:
The names of 15 substantial Democrats from each district shall be selected by the whole Committee and placed in a hat, and the five names first drawn out shall constitute the part of said Nominating Committee from the district from which the five names were first selected; and in like manner from each district in the county, until 5 shall be selected from each district abroad, making in all 20 members of said Nominating Committee. The twenty persons, so selected, shall be notified by the Chairman or Secretary of this Committee of their appointment, and also to attend a meeting of said Nominating Committee, to be held at Danville, on the 2nd Saturday in March next, at 2 o'clock, P. M., when said committee shall select and nominate a candidate for each of the county offices to be filed at said August election. Each member of said committee will be entitled to one vote in the selection of the candidates. In case of the absence of any member of said Nominating Committee, three from each district shall constitute a quorum from said district, and be entitled to cast five votes, as if the whole five had been present.

MONTGOMERY.
The Montgomery Democracy have adopted a different mode of nominating candidates from any we have observed. It provides that the election of candidates shall be by ballot and the vote taken by committees selected by the Executive Committee from the various precincts, each precinct in the county having three canvassers, who take the vote in their respective precincts by visiting the houses of the Democratic voters or seeing them in the precincts where they are entitled to vote. The name of the voters is to be written on the ballot which he deposits, and his name registered by the canvasser. When two or more ballots are found folded together all such ballots are deemed fraudulent and thrown out and not counted. The canvassers begin taking the vote on a designated day and complete and return the boxes to the Executive Committee in four days. The expenses of the canvass to be borne by the candidates proportionately.

KENTUCKY LEGISLATURE.

The Kentucky University case has been made a special order for next Monday morning.

The Local Option bill of the House was taken up and passed by the Senate—yeas 26; nays 7.

The house has passed an act to change the time for the meeting of the General Assembly to December 31st.

The Geological Survey bill was a special order for yesterday in the Senate, having passed the House last week.

The attempt to repeal the law prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors in buildings adjoining billiard rooms, failed in the House.

The Liquor bill—making it unlawful to sell or give away spirituous liquors on Sunday and election days—was laid on the table in the house—yeas 50; nays 43.

The bill to exempt priests and all others who, by reason of their higher relations, are made depositaries of private matters, from divulging the confessed secrets confided to them, has passed both branches.

Tax apportionment bill reported by the committee to the Senate and House, dividing the State into 38 Senatorial and 100 Representative Districts was adopted by the Senate on Monday. No change in this the Eighteenth District.

The House passed a bill which provides that the Fourth Lunatic Asylum, formerly the House of Reform, shall be used hereafter exclusively for lunatics and shall be called the Central Lunatic Asylum. An appropriation of $100,000 for the enlargement of the institution, one-third to be used for the accommodation of colored lunatics is provided for.

FIELDING SALINGER shot and killed Wm. King in Montgomery county on the 1st inst. Jeopardy and whisky.

The negro barber, B. K. Bruce, was elected U. S. Senator by the Mississippi Legislature on the 3d inst.

The Kansas Senatorial struggle is over, and Governor Harvey is the elect. The result is regarded as a triumph of honesty and fairness in Kansas politics.

They are having trouble in Colorado Territory between the Mormons and Navajos. Several tribes of Indians have united with the Navajos and making it warm for the big game.

In the race for the Democratic nomination for candidate for Clerk of the Appellate Court, on Saturday last, says the Covington Journal, the vote in the convention stood, for Jones 177; for McClary, 155; for Duvall 194.

The seventh annual session of the National Grange of Patrons of Husbandry commenced in St. Louis on the 4th inst. All the States in the Union, except Maine and Delaware, represented. Nearly all the delegates were accompanied by their wives. Among the most important questions which the convention will consider are the revision of the ritual, who shall be eligible for membership in subordinate granges, the co-operative system, etc. The session will continue a week or more and be secret.

The Southern Railroad Trustees are having trouble with some two or three thousand discontented tax-payers of Cincinnati, who want the enterprise discontinued, who think the work is beyond the means of the city and sooner or later must be discontinued, and who want the law at once repealed. They have petitioned the Ohio Legislature for a repeal of the law. A heavy delegation from Cincinnati accompanied by a seductive brass band, has been sent up to Columbus to influence legislation in favor of the road. Tom Scott asks, for permitting the road to use the Newport bridge, a sum, the interest upon which, at 6 per cent, would be $52,000 a year. The situation is quite interesting, and makes us follow along the line of the road kinder tremble in our boots.

Beyond the Mississippi.
Thousands have already gone, and thousands more are turning their eyes towards new homes in the fertile West. To those going to Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Colorado, Utah, Wyoming, Nevada, Oregon or California, we recommend a cheap, safe, quick and direct route via St. Louis, over the Missouri Pacific railroad, which runs its fine Day Coaches and Pullman Sleepers from St. Louis to principal points in the West, without change. We believe that the Missouri Pacific railroad has the best track and the finest and safest equipment of any line West of the Mississippi, and its connections with roads further West are prompt and reliable. The Texas connection of this road is now completed and passengers are offered a first class all-rail route from St. Louis to Texas, either over the Missouri, Kansas and Texas R.R., via Sedalia, or over the Atlantic & Pacific R.R. via Vidua. For maps, time tables, information as to rates, routes, etc., we refer our readers to E. A. Ford, General Passenger Agent, St. Louis, Mo. Questions will be cheerfully and promptly answered.

PULASKI COLUMN.

Edited by Wm. C. Curd.

SOMERSET, KY., Feb. 2, 1874.

SUMMARY OF TOWN NEWS.

The names of numerous strangers are now being daily registered at our hotels, many of whom are taking prospective tours through our country and hunting out locations on the railroad line.

We learn that several real estate purchases have been made recently at and near Point Isabel, in our county. This is the head of navigation on the Cumberland and the crossing of the railroad, while it is generally conceded that one of the most important points on the line will be at this point.

Mr. T. Burket, of Barboursville, representing the extensive coal bank house of Wilson, Hinkle & Co., Cincinnati, was in our town a few days since. He is quite a sociable and agreeable gentleman, and his books are taking well wherever he goes.

Rev. G. C. Overstreet preached very excellent sermons at the M. E. Church South, on Saturday evening and Sunday morning last. Rev. Walden, of Lancaster, also delivered several very able discourses at the Christian Church on Saturday evening and Sunday last.

Rev. T. J. Coleman, of the Baptist Church, on Sunday, the 25th inst., commenced a protracted meeting at Cundiff's School-house, 2 1/2 miles S. W. of Somerset, which still continues. Will not some friend report its progress?

OUR CHILDREN.

A number of new students, both young ladies and gentlemen, entered their appearance at our college, during the last month, from our own and adjoining counties. While Somerset can now boast of one of the best schools in Kentucky, under the charge of Col. S. A. Newell and lady, assisted by the Rev. J. N. Current, who at the end of every month hold a review, to which the parents and friends are invited to attend.

MARRIED.

At the residence of Mrs. E. A. Porch, on the 25th inst., by the Rev. J. N. Current, Mr. T. H. Stapp and Miss Lizzie Porch, daughter of H. S. Porch. Attendants—E. P. Hays, Geo. W. Watt, Misses Lizzie Salice and Lizzie Crawford.

The bride and her attendants were dressed in superb style, arrayed in spotless white of the richest fabric, plumed with exquisite beauty, and the lovely trio of Lizzies constituting a theme that the imaginations of poets might dwell upon in the ecstasies of joy. The gentlemen appeared in a very neat and elegant dress wearing those pleasant smiles of joy and gladness. The bridegroom smiling the greatest pride that he would ever long possess the hand and heart of his choice, the beautiful, most worthy object upon which his earthly affections were centered, and his first true love time will surely grow more fondly and unchangeable in a devoted husband's heart. The attendants possessing that hopeful appearance as if meditating that: Great God, how long, oh, how long must we thus hold in contemplation the realities of a happy future state. He patient my boys and girls and of good cheer, thou art verging gradually but slowly toward that earthly haven where happiness will come to those who seek it properly, while you and loving hearts are beating in unison with your own. After the most beautiful ceremony we ever listened to and Tom and Lizzie were pronounced man and wife, they with their attendants and guests who were the wedding garment received by the Ingram House where a magnificent reception was extended to them.

We congratulate Tom and Lizzie, and may the happy hour of marriage last prove an index to hearts of love and adoration toward each other that will experience naught but future earthly bliss.

We learn that several other couples residing in our town and vicinity will soon imitate the good example presented on the evening of the 25th, and endeavor to fulfill that Bible injunction which is so necessary to the building up and perpetuating this glorious Commonwealth of ours. How wise when considering the defeat of the immigration bill by the present Legislature.

TURNPIKE.

Will the citizens of Pulaski and Lincoln complete the turnpike from Somerset to Stanford? We will make a few suggestions upon this subject ere long.

GRANGE & CRAWFORD.
Are now offering to the public one of the most complete stocks of Family Groceries, Hardware, Queensware, and Confectioneries ever brought to Somerset at very low prices. They can keep constantly for sale all kinds of mechanical tools and farming implements, Iron, Steel, Chains, Hoes, Hatchets, Axes, Spades, Shovels, short and long handled Forks, hoes, hatchets, spades, shovels and axe handles, all kinds of Nails and Horse Shoes, horse and mule Collars, Harness, &c. The greatest variety of Candles, Sugars, Nuts, and the best Cigars and Tobaccoes in the market. Give them a call, and we guarantee full satisfaction to all those who will give them their patronage.

DROWNED.

On Sunday, the 25th, Mrs. Meese, aged about thirty years, widow of John Meese and daughter of Squire Rife, was drowned in Cuck Creek, at or near Bruen & Hargis' mill. Her body having been found some two hundred yards below the dam on the following day.

Her friends suppose that in attempting to cross the creek in a canoe a short distance above the mill, the current being so swift and strong she was carried over the dam; and no person being near to render assistance she was left to the mercy of the angry waves.

But Cuck Creek is a dangerous stream, more people having been drowned in it than all the other streams in our county combined, and we would advise all to shun it in time of high water.

BEET ROOTS!

Who does not want beet roots?

"A peer town that cannot afford a market house, not even a butcher's stall. Fat cattle are plenty and cheap. Uncle John Love was in town the other day trying to sell 15 or 20 head extra beef cattle but could not find a buyer. Will not some good man open a butcher shop and supply the great demand in our town for fresh beef in particular. It is a paying business here properly attended to."

THE GREAT DRAWING.

Call on W. C. Curd or J. B. Gragg and get your tickets in the great Library Drawing which takes place certain on the 21st of March next. But very few boxes left unsold.

THE NEW APPOINTMENT BILL.

We take the following from the new appointment bill recently presented to the Senate by Mr. Hodge.

ber we have been connected with our sister counties either Wayne or Lincoln, and being satisfied with this connection we do not wish it severed for political effect or otherwise.

Our county has a population of about 17,000 and we appeal to the sound judgment of our representatives and ask them the logical question, is it right to tack us to all the small counties south of us and to the Virginia border before we can assert our rights to representation in the Senate, who upon due reflection must answer, certainly not. However, should the bill pass as it now stands the people of Pulaski, without regard to party will always remember its framers with hearts full of "mixed" gratitude.

We most earnestly appeal now to our Senator and Representative and others friendly disposed, our county to protect our rights and file immediately our exceptions to this bill as now presented.

G. H. ENSEL.

Why is it that the above named gentlemen have such an extensive trade in our county? Answer. Because he is a nice man. Keeps his house well filled with choice goods. Sells cheap, and has gentlemanly and accommodating clerks to wait on the customers. Don't forget his cheap cash store.

THANKS.

To Spencer Hooper for executing the sentence which hung our new gate on Saturday evening last, and we hope no friend will cut it down.

LIVE STOCK ITEMS.

Local Sales and General Movements.

LAND AND CROP ITEMS.

Corn is worth, delivered in cribs in Stanford, $3.00 per barrel.

El. Carter sold last week, to Burnside & Anderson, 14 fat cattle for $725.

The work of organizing the Patrons of Husbandry in the State, is still in progress with great rapidity.

I have for sale about 20 good yearling cattle, one mile from Stanford, on the Danville turnpike. JAMES GIBSON.

A better feeling is reported in the Southern milk market, especially in the Southeast and seaboard cities, though sales are still made at ruinous prices.

The complaints made to Congress by the Grangers are receiving special attention from the House Committee on Agriculture, and bills will be prepared to remedy, as far as possible, the causes of complaint.

Merce—Capt. English favors us with the following report of the sale of Hinchey's stock: Between 2 and 3 hundred cattle on the market, selling at $3 to $4 for the best grades, and few changing hands at these figures. Mules and horses generally withdrawn.

The market at Louisville was well supplied last Monday, and best butchers' stuff sold readily at from $4.75 to $5.25; good to medium $3.50 to $4.50; extra fat steers for Eastern market $3.10 to $3.50. Shippers who can not realize to suit them on the Louisville market have the privilege of re-shipping by rail from the Southern Stock Yards to Cincinnati or Eastern markets, at through rates given them from different points on the L. & N. & G. R. railroad. The hog market is active and some good higher, few good hogs being offered; best butchers' $5.75 to $6.00; medium $5.25 to $5.50; shoats $5.75 to $6.00.

Mr. R. R. Gentry, of this vicinity, told us a remarkable story the other day about a steer, which verifies the statement that mountain cattle will break out of bluegrass up to their eyes, and return to their native hills to feed upon ivy and chestnut burs. He said that about four months ago, a neighbor of his bought of Mr. Millip, a noted Tennessee cattle drover, a small bunch of scrub cattle, and about a month ago he missed one out of the lot and after searching for it in the neighborhood gave it up for lost; but, a day or two ago he received word from Mr. Millip that the animal had just arrived in his vicinity, in Fentress county, Tennessee. It is now living on dead leaves and black-jack twigs and perfectly "at home."

LOUISVILLE MARKET.
Market firm and active; wheat $1.45 to $1.65 for red and white; oats in bulk 50c; corn, white, on arrival 60c, mixed 61c; ear corn 73c on arrival; rye 95c to $1.10; hay, choice timothy, delivered at the depot, $12 to $13; fair to choice $12 to $15.

PUBLIC SALES.

At the sale of the personality of Walter Buchanan, deceased, in this county, last Saturday, there was a good crowd present, and bidding active. Stock sold at good prices; corn brought $2.65; hay in demand at good prices in bulk.

COURT DAY SALES.

Our court day sales "over the river" are all taken from the Paris Free Press, which is invaluable to us as an exchange, and one of the best stock papers in the West.—[En.]
Paris—Col. Caldwell reports about 500 to 600 cattle on the market. He sold 400 2-year old steers at $17.50; 10 head at $18.15; 25 yearlings at $18. Trade rather depressed in comparison with former courts; sales generally made, but at reduced rates.—[En.]
Hill reports that about 500 head of cattle in town; prices a little low; not much demand; brought 20c to 25c. Large crowd in town. Mules sold better than he expected.

FARM PRODUCTS.

The American Agricultural speaking of the wool-market, says: During all the fluctuations of value, consequent upon the recent financial crisis, wool happily in a great measure passed over, the market value of wool remained almost constant. "Domestic fleece" was quoted in the New York market on September 10th at 48 cents per pound; exactly the same quotation was current on November 25th, while almost all other staples except grain, cotton and sugar, had greatly declined. The fact that wool, wheat, corn, and oats thus retained their value amidst the most unfavorable circumstances goes to show that agriculture is the most stable of all industries, and while all else may be going to wreck the farmer alone can afford to contemplate the disaster with comparative serenity.

SOUTHERN TRADE.

Col. Craddock has received a letter from Memphis dated January 29th, which states that there are about 600 mules and 150 horses for sale in that city. Prices have weakened to the very lowest point; to-day one stable sold 15 head of three mile mules 144 heads high, order good, all workers, at $55 apiece. Twenty head 12 and 14 year old, well fattened, strictly good, at $120 to $130. Buyers scarce with little money, and urging even lower prices. Horses are even worse; ten head offered to-day to some parties, the best bid made was thirty-five dollars per head; quality and flesh indifferent, altogether the market is fearful, although the supply of cotton is unusually large at this point; about 80,000 bales now in store, mostly owned by merchants for supplies advanced next year. The season and work is very backward. But few prepared for plowing, and if a full crop is planted will necessarily be late.

Candidates may kick in the harness, and no harm to the party come of it, if the manner of adjustment of their claims is so fair and free from fraud as to create no divisions among the rank and file of the party. We are all tired of what seems to the people to be "packed" conventions; and we are all heartily disgusted with the fraudulent system of primary elections; hence we must choose our methods of adjustment.—When we say adjustment, we do not mean that the party is under obligations to consider only the claims of those persons who have announced themselves as candidates. These persons are before you, it is true, and want their claims settled, but in selecting from the party such men for the various offices as will be acceptable to the majority, their claims will also be adjusted, whether any of them are nominated or not.—Let the Democratic Executive Committee meet and alight upon the best plan possible and then submit it to the party in mass-meeting for their endorsement. If the plan they submit is not satisfactory, let a better one be proposed, and when a satisfactory one is adopted let it be carried out in good faith, regardless of the interests of any man or set of men, section or precinct; and when a ticket is chosen let all men who are imbued with the principles of Democracy unite without dissension upon it. It is unnecessary to say that it is proper and right that the party should adopt a plan of selecting a ticket, and in making the selection, rule all other Democratic aspirants off the track. No intelligent man needs to be told this; and the man who argues to the contrary is woefully ignorant, or is a radical in disguise.

Believing that our party is as strong in the county to-day as ever, and knowing that our divisions have resulted from the imperfect manner of selecting candidates heretofore, we trust that the constituted authorities will use every effort at their meeting next Monday to devise a better and more satisfactory method. The following plans have been adopted by some of neighboring counties:

MADISON.

The Democratic County Committee appointed, privately, nine good men from each district, and drew, by ballot, from each nine, three men to represent each district, and they met on a day named by the County Committee and nominated a ticket. The action of the Appointing Committee (the first nine selected) was kept secret from the candidates until after the nominations were made. Men were selected who were not of kin to either of the candidates, and they were enjoined to silence in reference to their appointment. The nominations were made under this method and there is no dissatisfaction in the party.

BOYLE.

The Executive Committee of Boyle have published the following plan:

The names of 15 substantial Democrats from each district shall be selected by the whole Committee and placed in a hat, and the five names first drawn shall constitute the part of said Nominating Committee from the district from which five or more names were first selected; and in like manner from each district in the county, until 5 shall be selected from each district aforesaid, making in all 20 members of said Nominating Committee. The twenty persons, so selected, shall be notified by the Chairman or Secretary of this Committee of their appointment, and also to attend a meeting of said Nominating Committee, to be held at Danville, on the 2nd Saturday in March next, at 2 o'clock, P. M., when said committee shall select and nominate a candidate for each of the county offices to be filled at said August election. Each member of said committee will be entitled to one vote in the selection of the candidates. In case of the absence of any member of said Nominating Committee, three from each district shall constitute a quorum from said district, and be entitled to cast five votes, as if the whole five had been present.

MONTGOMERY.

The Montgomery Democracy have adopted a different mode of nominating candidates from any we have observed. It provides that the election of candidates shall be by ballot and the vote taken by committees selected by the Executive Committee from the various precincts, each precinct in the county having three canvassers, who take the vote in their respective precincts by visiting the houses of the Democratic voters or seeing them in the precincts where they are entitled to vote. The name of the voters is to be written on the ballot which he deposits, and his name registered by the canvasser. When two or more ballots are found folded together all such ballots are deemed fraudulent and thrown out and not counted. The canvassers begin taking the vote on a designated day and complete and return the boxes to the Executive Committee in four days. The expenses of the canvass to be borne by the candidates proportionately.

KENTUCKY LEGISLATURE.

The Kentucky University case has been made a special order for next Monday morning.

The Local Option bill of the House was taken up and passed by the Senate—yeas 26; nays 7.

The House has passed an act to change the time for the meeting of the General Assembly to December 31st.

The Liquor bill—making it unlawful to sell or give away spirituous liquors on Sunday and election days—was laid on the table in the house—yeas 50; nays 43.

The bill to exempt priests and all others who, by reason of their higher law relations, are made depositaries of private matters, from divulging the confessed secrets confided to them, has passed both branches.

The committee on the bill reported by the committee to the Senate and House, dividing the State into 38 Senatorial and 103 Representative Districts was adopted by the Senate on Monday. No changes in this the Eighteenth District.

The House passed a bill which provides that the Fourth Lunatic Asylum, formerly the House of Reform, shall be used hereafter exclusively for lunatics and shall be called the Central Lunatic Asylum. An appropriation of $500,000 for the enlargement of the institution, one-third to be used for the accommodation of colored lunatics is provided for.

In the race for the Democratic nomination for candidate for Clerk of the Appellate Court, on Saturday last, says the Covington Journal, the vote in the convention stood, for Jones 177; for McClary, 155; for Duval 194.

The seventh annual session of the National Congress of Patrons of Husbandry commenced in St. Louis on the 4th inst.

All the States in the Union, except Maine and Delaware, represented. Nearly all the delegates were accompanied by their wives. Among the most important questions which the convention will consider are the revision of the ritual, who shall be eligible for membership in subordinate granges, the co-operative system, etc. The session will continue a week or more and be secret.

The Southern Railroad Trustees are having trouble with some two or three thousand discontented tax-payers of Cincinnati, who want the enterprise discontinued, who think the work is beyond the means of the city and sooner or later must be discontinued, and who want the L. W. at a living the construction of the road repealed. They have petitioned the Ohio Legislature for a repeal of the law. A heavy delegation from Cincinnati accompanied by a seductive brass band, has been sent up to Columbus to influence legislation in favor of the road.

Tom Scott asks, for permitting the road to use the Newport bridge, a sum, the interest upon which, at 6 per cent., would be $72,000 a year. The situation is quite interesting, and makes us follow along the line of the road kinder troublesome in our boots.

Beyond the Mississippi.

Thousands have already gone, and thousands more are turning their eyes towards new homes in the fertile West. To those going to Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Colorado, Utah, Wyoming, Nevada, Oregon or California, we recommend a cheap, safe and direct route via St. Louis, over the Missouri Pacific railroad, which runs its line Day Coaches and Pullman Sleepers from St. Louis to principal points in the West, without change. We believe that the Missouri Pacific railroad has the best track and the finest and safest equipment of any line West of the Mississippi, and its connections with roads further West are prompt and reliable. The Texas connection of this road is now completed and passengers are offered a first class all-rail route from St. Louis, Kansas, either over the Missouri, Kansas & Texas R. R., via Sedalia, or over the Atlantic & Pacific R. R., via Vinita. For rates, time tables, information as to rates, routes, etc., we refer our readers to E. A. PULASKI COLUMN.

Edited by Will C. Cud.

SOMERSET, KY., Feb. 2, 1874.

SUMMARY OF TOWN NEWS.

The names of numerous strangers are now being daily registered at our hotels, more of whom are taking prospective tours through our county and hunting out locations on the railroad line.

We learn that several real estate purchases have been made recently at and near Point Isabel, in our county. This is the head of navigation on the Cumberland and the crossing of the railroad, while it is generally conceded to be the most important depot on the line will be at this point.

Mr. T. Burckett, of Barlowville, representing the extensive school house of Wilson, Hinkle & Co., Cincinnati, was in our town a few days since. He is quite a sociable and agreeable gentleman, and his looks are taking well wherever he goes.

Rev. G. C. Overstreet preached very excellent sermons at the M. E. Church South, on Saturday evening and Sunday morning last.

Rev. W. Walden, of Lancaster, also delivered several very able discourses at the Christian Church on Saturday evening and Sunday last.

Rev. T. J. Coleman, of the Baptist Church, on Sunday, the 24th inst., commenced a protracted meeting at Cudli's School-house, 2 1/2 miles N. W. of Somerset, which still continues. Will not some friend report its progress?

OUR COLLEGE.

A number of new students, both young ladies and gentlemen, entered their appearance at our college, during the last month, from our own and adjoining counties. While Somerset can now boast of one of the very best schools in Kentucky, under the charge of Col. S. A. Newell and lady, assisted by the Rev. J. N. Current, who at the end of every month hold a review, to which the patrons and friends are invited to attend.

MARRIED.

At the residence of Mrs. E. A. Porch, on the 24th inst., by the Rev. J. N. Current, Mr. T. H. Shepherd to Miss Lizzy Porch, daughter of H. H. Porch. Attendants—E. F. Hayes, Geo. W. Ward, Misses Lizzy Salles and Lizzy Crawford.

The bride and her attendants were dressed in superb style, arrayed in spotless white of the richest fabric, plain but of exquisite beauty and taste, the lovely trio of Lizzy constituting a theme that the imaginations of poets might dwell upon in the ecstasies of joy. The gentlemen appeared in a very neat and elegant dress wearing those pleasant smiles of joy and gladness. The bridegroom evincing the greatest pride that he would ever long possess the hand and heart of his choice, the beautiful, most worthy object upon which his earthly affections were centered, and which we trust time will serve to engrave more firmly and unchangeably in a devoted husband's heart. The attendants possessing that hopeful appearance as if meditating thus: Great God, how long, oh how long must we thus hold in contemplation the realities of a happy future state. Be patient my boys and girls and of good cheer, then at evening gradually be doubly secured that earthly haven where happiness will come to those who seek it properly, while true and loving hearts are beating in union with your own. After the most beautiful ceremony we ever listened to and Tom and Lizzy were pronounced man and wife, they with their attendants and guests who wore the wedding garment repaired to the Ingram House where a magnificent reception was extended to them.

We congratulate Tom and Lizzy, and may the happy hour of marriage but prove an index to hearts of love and adoration toward each other that will experience naught but future earthly bliss.

We learn that several other couples residing in our town and vicinity will soon imitate the good example presented on the occasion of the 24th, and endeavor to fulfill that little injunction which is so necessary to the building up and perpetuating this glorious Old Commonwealth of ours. How wise when considering the defeat of the immigration bill by the present Legislature.

TURNPIKE.

Will the citizens of Pulaski and Lincoln complete the turnpike from Somerset to Stanford? We will make a few suggestions upon this subject ere long.

GRAND CRAWFORD.

Are now offering to the public one of the most complete stocks of Family Groceries, Hardware, Queensware, and Confectioneries ever brought to Somerset at very low prices. They also keep constantly for sale all kinds of mechanical tools and farming implements, Iron, Steel, Chains, Hoes, Hatchets, Axes, Spades, Shovels, short and long handled Forks, hoes, hatchet, spade, shovel and axe handles, all kinds of Nails and Horse Shoes, horse and mule Collars, Hames, &c. The greatest variety of Candles, Sugars, Nuts, and the best Cigars and Tobacco in the market. Give them a call, and you will guarantee full satisfaction to all those who will give them their patronage.

TURNPIKE.

On Sunday, the 25th, Mr. Mece, aged about thirty years, widow of John Mece and daughter of Spire Bay, was drowned in Buck Creek, at or near Bruden & Hargis' mill, her body having been found some two hundred yards below the dam on the following day.

Her friends suppose that in attempting to cross the creek in a canoe a short distance above the mill, the current being so swift and strong she was carried over the dam and no person being near to render assistance she was left to the mercy of the angry waves.

BROWNED.

"A poor town that cannot afford a market house, not even a butcher's stall. Fat cattle are plenty and cheap. Fie! Joseph Love was in town the other day trying to sell 15 or 20 head extra best cattle but could not find a buyer. Will not some good man open a butcher shop and supply the great demand in our town for fresh beef in particular. It is a paying business here properly attended to."

THE GREAT DRAWING.

Call on W. C. Cud or J. B. Gragg and get your tickets in the great Lottery Drawing which takes place every year on the 31st of March next. But very few have been issued.

THE NEW ARTIST'S MISTAKE.

We take the following from the new appointment bill recently presented to the Senate by Mr. Holge.

17th Senatorial District: Pulaski, Laurel, Whitley, Bell, Knox and Jackson.

This may appear exactly right to the worthy committee which has consumed so much time in the preparation of this all-important bill, but at the composition of the district is all wrong, unjust and unwarranted by the citizens of the counties in which the bill throws us. Only this, it throws us one hundred and fifty miles from home among strangers and in a strange land. As far back as we can remember we have been connected with our sister counties either Wayne or Lincoln, and being satisfied with this connection we do not wish it severed for political effect or otherwise.

Why is it that the above named gentleman has such an extensive trade in our county?

Answer. Because he is a nice man. Keeps his house well filled with choice goods. Sells cheap, and has gentlemanly and accommodating clerks to wait on the customers. Don't forget his cheap cash store.

BADED FARMERS.

Something About the Grangers. The following is an extract from a speech of T. J. Key, the head of the Patrons of Husbandry in Kentucky made at Frankfort when the State Grange was organized:

Many are ready to ask what is the necessity of the farmers organizing as Patrons of Husbandry? We answer this objection by asking why do other professions unite under the names of boards of trade, mechanical associations, chambers of commerce freight combinations, pork packers conventions? If these various interests have found it to their advantage to thus co-operate, why not permit the farmers to enjoy similar privileges. If unity of action has aided these various classes, it will certainly do as much for the farmers. It has become a matter of necessity to them in self-defense to organize, as other professions have set them the example, and forced them under the laws of self preservation to unite; and no sooner do the farmers begin to unite on the co-operation plan, than do those living in glass houses cry out, farmers, stop that, you have no right to combine against my business! It is now too late for the old co-operators to protest against the farmers proceeding with their organization, as they are now in earnest, and the Grange will continue to grow until it numbers 5,000,000 producers in its ranks and will stand as one man, determined no longer to submit to wrong, nor to ask nothing but what is just among men.

MUTUAL IMPROVEMENT.

The farmers have not the facilities to educate themselves that others enjoy who live in villages or cities, therefore, the Grange will be of great usefulness, "as steel is said to sharpen steel." One intelligent, reading farmer will give his practical experience in some fully tested mode of cultivation in a regular meeting, and perhaps fifty men will return to their homes and put in execution his advice. The Grange resembles a legislative body, as it has its business transactions and all agricultural questions are fully discussed, and committees appointed to investigate prices of transportation, which is the best market to sell their produce in, and the cheapest to procure their supplies.

IS IT POLITICAL.

This movement has nothing to do with politics, it does not seek to pull down nor build up either Republican or Democratic parties, but it is for the "right man in the right place" entirely ignoring party lines. In fact the discussion of political issues is forbidden by the constitution, but if any party or politician like a huge rock on a railroad track, lays in the road of this reformation, it or he will be removed, and the Grange will roll on like the mighty engine in its grand and noble destiny of lightening the burdens of humanity.

All Patrons want to know of the candidate, is he qualified—is he opposed to monopolies—is he honest—is he for equal taxation. We have abandoned party, to inaugurate a thorough reformation and alleviate the distresses of our race. We are for healing the sectional wounds that party has so long made bleed for designing men and propose to bring together the people of the North and South as one family in the Grange. ADVANTAGES OF CO-OPERATIVE PLAN. The farmers movement has had the desirable result of bringing the producer and the manufacturer nearer together than heretofore, increasing the sales of and reducing the cost of the other. It is estimated that the farmers of Iowa, will save this year $2,000,000 by purchasing direct from the manufacturers all their agricultural implements. The State Grange of Mississippi have called a gentleman from his country home and sent him to New Orleans to bundle their cotton, through whom their planters in drayage and storage will save over $400,000. It will devolve upon you Masters to select a suitable and honest man to receive the hemp, corn, wheat, hay, tobacco and stock in Kentucky at Louisville, the commercial headquarters of our State, and to purchase from the manufacturers all kinds of implements for the Grangers. Should the price for pork continue unprofitable to the grower, it may be found necessary to establish a co-operative warehouse there, where the hogs of the State may be packed and sold in the cured state and the proceeds divided pro rata to hogs furnished.

MIDDLE MEN.

This movement is meeting with the strenuous opposition of middle men, as it will leave them, like Othello, without an occupation. In the bee-hive there are three kinds of bees—the queen, the drones and the workers. The queen lays all the eggs, the workers make the honey, and the drones do nothing but eat. After the swarming period is over the workers commence driving the drones from the hive and clip their wings until the hive is free of drones. The hive is an illustration of society—the soil is queen, the farmers are the workers, and the middle-men are the drones, who do but little and yet sip the honey. The period has now come that the farmers propose to eat some of the honey they have so untiringly labored to make, and to do this they must go round some of the middle-men and purchase directly from the manufacturers, as the middle men have been making more than their proportion of profits—eating more than their share of honey. There have been too many drones or non-producers in the beehive of life, and the workers—farmers—now want to enjoy their proportion of the sweets of their labors. The farmer may drive his beef to market that has required his daily attention for two years and the butcher who buys that beef will realize more from the sale of it within twenty-four hours than the grower did in two years. The Grangers will open their markets in the cities and receive better prices for their produce than at present and sell to the consumer at less than he now pays. It is an erroneous opinion that the Grange movement will increase the prices of the necessities of life—the interest of the manufacturers, the laborers, and the farmers are one. The six millions of agriculturists of the United States have the right to buy what manufactured articles they may need where they can buy them cheapest, and no class of tradesman can question this right.

ANTI-MONOPOLY.

By special legislation a few persons and chartered corporations have become so powerful that the people have become mere slaves to their moneyed power. Of J. Cook & Co., to confirm this statement. The country is in a pitiable condition when the failure of one firm can, and has distressed thirty millions of people. America has its railroad kings as well as its bank kings. The railroad managers fix their rates of tariff and transportation as high as they desire, and the people have been forced to pay their prices, but they have received all their authority from the legislatures, and now the Grangers propose to regulate their rates by the same powers that granted them their privileges—by legislation. Laws should be made for the good of all and not to grant privileges to a few.

EQUAL TAXATION.

The declaration of Independence sets out with the doctrine of equal rights to all, but by partial legislation the capitalists who may own $200,000 government bonds, and draws six per cent, semi-annually in gold, but pays no tax on it, while the farmer who has his all in ten acres must pay his tax or his home will be sold from him. This is not justice between the subjects of the same government—"equal taxation and equal rights" is one of the Grangers' mottoes.

Determined to make one united effort to bring the government back to its original purity, and to overthrow those who have enriched themselves at the expense of the toiling masses—therefore they propose to let alone the back-salary men of all names and grades.

REDUCTION OF TARIFF.

The Patrons of Husbandry are in favor of a tariff revenue, but not one cent for protection, and they demand that iron, lumber and salt be placed on the free list. Through enactments of the Congress the South and West pay to the manufacturers of the small State of Massachusetts annually as tribute money the astonishing sum of $75,000,000. No wonder that her people become rich while those of the West and South become poorer. Such laws of protection tax the many to enrich the few. In the words of the great Jefferson, the Patrons of Husbandry demand "equal and exact justice to all men."

CREDIT SYSTEM.

One of the aims of this association is to overthrow the credit system which has been a curse to every class, but more especially to the farmer. Heretofore he has been buying on a credit, and of course the merchant must have his prices correspond with the length of time that he gives the credit. It will be the duty of the better in every subordinate Grange to urge upon the membership the great necessity of adopting the cash rule, "pay as they go." This principle strictly carried out will result in much good to all classes of business men, and free the producers from many cares, and the happy effects will be felt by all.

ECONOMICAL PRINCIPLES.

While it is urged upon the Patrons to use economy and pay cash, they shall insist that the same rules shall be applied to the administration of our State and national affairs, and the first measure to meet this desirable end is to remove the causes that have created the heavy taxation. First will be the reduction of the large salaries given to the various government officials, and secondly, the reduction of the army. In 1861 the army numbered 16,000 men—now it has 30,000, and the estimated expense of sustaining this army for 1873, is $32,415,472, being a tax of almost one dollar per head for every inhabitant of the nation. The army should be reduced to 16,000, and thus save to the people $17,000,000 per annum. We do not need any army in our midst, nor soldiers part of the voting precincts—the people are the sovereigns, and they can and will see the laws enforced without the presence of the soldiery. In times of peace a republican people do not wish to be taxed to support a large army when it is only necessary to have enough to secure the forts and protect the Western frontier.

PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY.

This appears to be a weak imitation of the Patrons of Husbandry, the constitution and forms belonging to that order being mainly copied. Its ostensible object is to unite mechanics and laboring men in a body like that of the Patrons of Husbandry, but its real object seems to be to transfer money from the pockets of those who earn it to those who live by their wits. The headquarters is advertised as being in New York, but we have not yet seen any one who has succeeded in finding the head men. It looks like a conglomeration that will do no harm if let alone.—American Agriculturist.

A WITTY Cincinnati lady, writing from Washington, says: Boston draws herself up severely, scans your editorial developments through her eyeglasses, and coolly asks: "What do you know?" New York displays her silks and diamonds, and pertly asks: "What are you worth?" Philadelphia, with prim hands and pursed-up lips, asks: "Who was your grandmother?" While Washington stops between the wait and the german to inquire: "Can you dance?"

PADDY'S VERSION OF "EX-CALIBUR."

'Twas growing dark on a terrible night, When through a town up the mountain there passed A broth of a boy, to his neck in the snow; As he walked his shillalah he swung to and fro, Saying, 'Till the top I bound for to go, Be jabbers!

He looked mortal sad, and his eyes were as bright As a fire of turf on a cold winter night, And a devil of a word that he said could ye tell

As he opened his mouth and let out a yell, 'Tis up to the top and the mountain I'll go, Unless covered with this bottomless snow, Be jabbers!

Through the window he saw, as he traveled along, The light of the candles and fire so warm. But a big chunk of ice fell over his head; With a swirl and growl by St. Patrick, he said,

'Tis up till the very top I will rush, And then if it falls I'll not myself I'll crush, Be jabbers!

Whist! a hot, red-hot old man whose head was as white As the snow that fell down on that miserable night, Shure ye'll fall in the water me by a laff, For the night is so dark and the waltz so bad.

Bedad! he'd not tell to a word that was said, But he'd go till the top, if he win on his head, Be jabbers!

A bright, buxom young girl, such as like to be kissed, Axd him wadn't he stop, and how could he resist?

Shure, supping his fingers and winking his eye, While he shuffled upon her, he made his reply: Faith I meant to have told I got to the top, But as year wate said has axed me, I may as well stop, Be jabbers!

He stooped alight and he stooped alight, And ye wadn't be axin when he did go away, For wadn't he be a bawdy bosoon To be leavin' the darlin' in the wate honey-moon?

Whin the old man has paradesenough and to spare, Shure he might as well stay if he's comfortable there, Be jabbers!

"OLD KENTUCKY FOREVER!" Such is the jubilation song of a Wisconsin Democrat in journal, of the Jeffersonian stripe, on reading Governor Leslie's last message. The editor then proceeded to say: "We always thought something was going to happen in good old Kentucky some of these days that would astonish folks; and, correctly enough, it has. Governor Leslie's announcement, in his late message, that the State is wholly out of debt, with a surplus of a quarter of a million dollars in the treasury! Coming, as this announcement does, at a time when half a dozen States are totally bankrupt, when the United States Treasury is dangerously near that point, with a public debt increasing at the rate of ten millions of dollars a month, it is red-stocking and gratifying in the extreme. All honor to glorious old Kentucky. She was the only Southern State that wholly escaped the clutches of carpet-baggers and negroes. May her brave people live long to enjoy the healthful administration of honest Democrats."

In the Iowa Legislature, which had been at a deadlock owing to a tie in the voting for Speaker between the friends of Gear and Dixon, the proceedings were on Saturday varied by a little sport. The member from Story county offered the following resolution:

That Mr. Dixon and Mr. Gear Be well supplied with lager beer; And he who drinks the largest share Shall occupy the Speaker's chair. Mr. Cowman of Jasper offered the following:

O God, to whom all things are known, Except, perhaps, this one alone, Have pity on my mortal here, Who struggle hard to get in "Gear." Thy money, too, we have in loan, For Dixon's friends who need it more, But if more pleasing to Thy sight, Then take them both and end the fight.

Both resolutions were ruled out of order, and the voting went on. WHAT thoughtful, serious men some railroad conductors become. The young man who figured in the following colloquy, while descending a steep grade, would be an ornament to the pulpit: Lady.—Mr. Conductor, how do you hold these cars when you want to make a stop? C.—Madame, we apply the brake, which you see there. Lady.—Suppose, Mr. Conductor, if that brake should give way, what do you do then? C.—Madame, we then apply the double-acting brake, which you see at the other end of the cars. Lady.—But, Mr. Conductor, suppose that brake should not be sufficient to check the cars, where will we go then? C.—Madame, that depends entirely upon how you have lived in this world!

Young Smith was walking out with the dog of his heart, the other evening, and they chose the favorite resort of love, the post pasture near the dam. While admiring the falls and getting their noses reddened by the North wind, she burst out rapturously, "Isn't that dam splendid?" She nearly fainted away when Smith answered that he wasn't used to hearing young ladies swear, and another engagement is broken off.

Andrew Jackson was making a stump speech in a country village when Amos Kendall said: "Tip 'em a little Latin General; they won't be satisfied without." The hero of New Orleans thought of a few phrases in Latin, and in a voice of thunder wound up his speech with "E pluribus unum," "Sine qua non," "No plus ultra," "Multum in parvo." The effect was tremendous.

A Manual of Health.

An edition of between nine and ten millions of copies of a very useful work is now ready for gratuitous distribution, and can be had for the asking at any drug store in the United States, the British Colonies, Spanish America or Brazil. The work referred to is Hostetter's Almanac for 1874. The medical portion of it treats of the various ailments to which the human system is subject, and sets forth the peculiar properties of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters—the purest and best tonic at present known—as a preservative of health, and strength, and as a remedy for debility and disease. The Almanac is printed in all the principal languages of the civilized world and reaches a larger number of families and individuals than any other medical treatise that ever issued from the press. No man or woman who has a regard for that choicest of heaven's blessings, bodily vigor, should fail to read the plain, simple and convincing articles which this only practical publication contains. The medical portion is varied, instructive and amusing, and the calendar department copious and comprehensive. Hostetter's Almanac is, in short, a household convenience, adapted to the use of all classes and callings. The farmer, the planter, the miner, the merchant, the mechanic, the laborer, the professional man, all need it, and to invalids of both sexes it is literally an article of prime necessity. The medical facilities which render so many medical treatises intended for popular use unintelligible to the general reader, have been carefully avoided in this pamphlet. All is clear, explicit and readable and reconcilable with reason and common sense.

The proprietors, Messrs. Hostetter & Smith, Pittsburgh, Pa., in receipt of a two-cent stamp, will forward a copy by mail to any person who cannot procure one in his neighborhood.

The Rush to Kansas and Colorado.

The indications are that the rush to Kansas and Colorado will be greater than ever in 1874. The shortest way to reach the far West, through St. Louis, the great Mississippi Valley City of the inhabitants and the west end of the St. Louis, Kansas City and Northern Short Line, which reaches all the great land grants in the West, and runs its fast Express trains more than any other road, between the Mississippi and Missouri Rivers. This road, in the last two years, has expended over two million dollars, besides earnings, in extraordinary improvements of roadway, in relaying its line with the best quality of new steel and iron rails, on new ties, and in passenger equipments, having substituted for ordinary cars new red-lining chair coaches, with every appliance for comfort and safety, being elegantly carpeted and fitted with dressing rooms, with toilet traveling vanities, and every other convenience for ladies, gentlemen and families. Any ticket agent selling through tickets to the West will furnish tickets by this excellent route to St. Louis, Kansas City, Omaha, the best and shortest to Kansas, Colorado, Nebraska, California and the great West, it being the only line running through between St. Louis and Omaha. For map, circulars and time tables apply to J. F. McCarthy, Cincinnati, O., or to J. F. McCarthy, St. Louis, Mo., either of whom will furnish any information desired.

"DOCTOR," said an old lady, the other day to her family physician, "Kin you tell me how it is that some folks are born dumb?" "Why, then, certainly born dumb," replied the doctor, "it is owing to the fact that they come into the world minus the power of speech. 'La, me!' remarked the old lady: "now just see what it is to have physic! education! I've axed my old man a hundred times that ar same thing and all that I could ever get out of him was, 'kase they is!'"
